Rock a retro look in women's 1940s vintage dresses. All about the silhouette, 1940s dresses had high nipped-in waistlines and flowing skirts to create an hourglass shape even for those who didn't have one. The puffed or padded shoulders and the skirts helped to give a fuller looking shape to accentuate the dainty belted waist.

1940s vintage clothing also brings patriotism to runway looks, stemming from the overwhelming attitude of loyalty to our boys at war. It can be as simple as a red and white striped blouse paired with navy blue sailor pants or as sweet as a blue floral print swing dress and red T-strap heels. Whatever your take on patriotic expression, the 1940s collection at Unique Vintage has the dresses and separates to take your look of loyalty to the next level.

Dress in WWII-era vintage inspired 1940s dresses, then swing dance the night away to the latest big bands. 1940s dresses were flattering with a modest puff sleeve top, a fitted waist, and a knee-length A-line skirt. The button down shirtwaist dresses was especially charming. The later '40s saw the skirt narrow into the pencil or straight wiggle shape for a bit more Va Va Voom.

Also in the mid 1940s, the back wrap dress turned the wrap dress around so the two sides crossed in the back. Most wrap dresses today are made of soft, stretchy jersey (I love jersey), but that also means less structure and less modesty. It is still the style I highly recommend moms to be to wear for a 1940s vintage inspired look. Easy, comfortable, flexible, and flattering.
