Alagaupu Fa'asamoa One of the things I absolutely love about our language is the use of proverbs, or references to activities that our ancestors were accustomed to, (Alagaupu and muagagana). Much of our formal (oratory) language comes from these references and activities, like pigeon snaring, which was once a sport of chiefs in the past, or ...

Fa'alupega is often the first building block of a Samoan lauga (speech). When addressing a gathering of people, it is custom for the speaker to acknowledge all the other matai in the room, to greet each of them not just by title name, but with an acknowledgement of their village and recitation of how their village's titles fit together.
